I enjoy finding new illustrators even when the books are aimed for children. The visual style of Francesca Sanna is so appealing, you can find some of her work here- The authors note reveals : The Journey is actually the story of many journeys and it began with the story of two girls I met in a refugee centre in Italy.

The Journey by Francesca Sanna - Goodreads

“Francesca Sanna creates images that evoke the cost of war to all who are threatened by it. [...] Emotional, often stark, yet also hopeful, they will allow readers to share the emotions felt by the many refugee families looking for shelter and safety.” —Sal’s Fiction Addiction “[The Journey] is a powerful look at the refugee experience”

KIRKUS REVIEW. They travel by car, by bicycle, hidden in the backs of trucks, and on foot until they reach a wall, where a border guard prevents them from crossing. Here, expressive, posterlike art renders the guard a monstrously tall, red-bearded man who towers over the wall and sends the family back into the forest.
